Please be aware that not complying with the mentioned prescriptions will expose the product to excessive levels of mechanical stress that could affect the integrity of the product.

The driving style and the aggressiveness of the driver during the out lap are of utmost importance to minimise the stress generated over the carcass of the tyres. We recommend the drivers always avoid aggressive kerb usage, particularly until the tyres have reached an internal pressure close to their optimum running pressure.

We are confident you will understand the above requirements and, if necessary, will adjust your procedures accordingly. Further copies of the Pirelli technical booklet are available from the Pirelli technical area within the paddock.
